When the brain signals the Pancreas to secrete Insulin, which converts Glycogen into Glucose, returning the body to Normal Blood Glucose Levels. When Blood Glucose Levels Rise, the Pancreas secretes Insulin to convert Glycogen into Glucose. When Blood Glucose Levels Fall, the Pancreas secretes Glucagon which converts Glycogen into Glucose, returning the body to Normal Blood Glucose Levels.